Dude, a '50s style guy who thinks Santa is the center of Christmas
Kringle Krew, three '50s style guys who sing with Dude
Children, additional characters needed for backup singers and non-speaking parts

Summary:

This musical is set in a Christmas Command Center. The main character is Christmas Crusader (a super hero) who knows exactly what makes Christmas super. There are several kids who help keep the control center going and a “cool dude” who thinks Santa is the center of Christmas. This musical is perfect for using lots of props, lights, and decorations. Soundtracks are included for songs. This program was written with puppets in mind but could be adapted for children’s choir.

Comments:

This program has great songs, all of which could work as stand-alone puppet performances. The program addresses some of our secular Christmas traditions, but brings them to a spiritual focus. The song “A New Heart for Christmas” especially makes this a great program for an outreach event. The ‘50s style version of “The Night Before Christmas “ is also a lot of fun.

Bottom line:

Superheroes are very popular, so this program will have a big appeal for many of the kids in your church. The upbeat songs also give many opportunities for creativity in your presentation.
